Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hauser et al. (U.S. Pat. 5,980,053).

Hauser et al. discloses a main light source (7), a light guide member (3), an auxiliary light source (9) movable in the way claimed (col.3, lines 17-30, Figs.1 and 2), and a controller that drives the auxiliary light source at a continuous emission mode to emit light of a predetermined intensity (83,77, Fig.3). It is noted that claim 1 only requires that one mode be necessary.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3, 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Noguchi (U.S. Pat. 4,924,856) in view of Hauser et al. (U.S. Pat. 5,980,053).

Noguchi discloses a main light source (41), a light guide member (24) and a controller that drives the light source in both a continuous emission mode to emit light of a predetermined intensity and an intermittent emission mode to emit light of an intensity higher than the predetermined intensity (note Figs. 13-16, col.10, line 52 to col.11, line 44). The mode selection is dependent on the type of endoscope, as mentioned in the above cited passage, which is detected by a sensor (49). Note Figure 17 which indicates that the light source is operated in synchronization with the CCD timing, and thus with the vertical synchronizing signal. Thus, Noguchi discloses the claimed invention of claims 1-3, 5 and 6 except for an auxiliary light source, movable into the main light path. Hauser et al. is one of many references that teach the use of an auxiliary light source that is movable into the main light path upon failure of the main light source (note description of Hauser et al. above) to prevent a lack of illumination during a procedure. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have provided an auxiliary light source that is movable into the main light path upon failure of the main light source in the Noguchi et al. device to prevent a total blackout during a procedure and prevent potential injury during such blackout. As with the Hauser et al. device, switching to the auxiliary light source would not effect the overall control of the light apparatus such that the auxiliary light source would operate in the same way.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
